NORTH POLE EXPRESS

From the desk of Santa Claus

Dear Sophie,

I'm writing this by the fire with a cup of tea while the elves race about the workshop. Buddy has tangled himself in tinsel twice already today, so it's been quite a morning at the North Pole!

A little elf tells me you've been thinking hard about your Christmas wishes. I've written a LEGO racing car in my big book, right next to your name. Every sack on my sleigh is packed with care, and there's always room for a surprise or two.

Mrs Claus says your favourite Christmas food is mince pies. She thinks that's a splendid choice, and now she's feeling rather peckish.

Rudolph has been practising his rooftop landings and has already found your home on his map of Bath.

I've checked my Nice List very carefully, and I'm delighted to see your name on it. Keep being kind and helpful, Sophie, because that's what makes Christmas sparkle.

Do get plenty of sleep on Christmas Eve. I'll be ever so quiet, I promise.

With love and a sprinkle of snow,

Santa Claus
